

AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL: WOMEN AND THE FLAG Trudie A. Grace

A catalogue from an exhibition that revealed the extent and importance of popular images of women with the flag is available to the public by order from the Putnam County Historical Society & Foundry School Museum.

The catalogue reproduces prints, posters, sheet music covers, postcards, and magazine illustrations taken from four periods of American history, spanning the Civil War to World War II.

The 96-page catalogue, which contains three scholarly essays, detailed entries on the individual works, and 97 color illustrations, presents works from a private collection. The exhibition was originally shown at the Putnam County Historical Society & Foundry School Museum in the spring of 2002 and is being circulated to museums and other venues throughout the United States.
